NARRATIVE

Upon my arrival, I made contact with the offender, William W. Cronan (WM 12/20/90) who appeared to be highly intoxicated as the scent of an unknown alcoholic beverage was emanating from his person. During a fact-finding interview, W. W. Cronan advised he was just bitten, scratched, and hit by [redacted] (WF 8/23/55). W. W. Cronan stated [redacted] became highly agitated with him earlier in the evening because he was spending time with his ex-boyfriend in Palm Beach and because he asked her to help him complete a survey for potential employment. Let it be known that at this time, W. W. Cronan also advised that before he was attacked by [redacted], he, [redacted], and [redacted] were all in the main house drinking together before the incident. I observed W. W. Cronan to have fresh reddish scratch marks on his left and right biceps accompanied by bite marks and a small reddish scratch on his right thigh, let it be known that the scratch present on W. W. Cronan`s thigh, however, was from sex earlier in the evening with his ex-boyfriend, per him. W. W. Cronan`s injuries were promptly photographed before ending the initial conversation with him, and making our way to speak with [redacted] [redacted] and [redacted]

While speaking with [redacted] she advised us of the following:

She started off by saying that earlier in the evening, after attending a mutual friend`s birthday, she and [redacted] went to dinner before returning home. Once the two returned home, she explained that [redacted] W. W. Cronan was automatically upset with her and started to argue with her. Upon asking her why [redacted] W. W. Cronan became upset with her, she responded by saying that she did not exactly know why he was upset on today`s date. Upon asking her to explain further, she was sure to advise that [redacted] W. W. Cronan has an expectation that both she and [redacted] should always take him to dinner with them, and that he has started arguments with them in the past for similar reasons. At the conclusion of our conversation, Ofc. Pizarro was sure to document [redacted] uninjured physical condition through digital photographs. The photographs did not show any evidence of a struggle such as bruising or cuts on her hands, and no blood was present on or near the fingernails to show that she had recently scratched anybody, these photographs were then uploaded into evidence.com at a later time. At the conclusion of our conversation, I then went to speak with the victim, [redacted]

Upon speaking with [redacted] he advised me of the following:

He started off by explaining that once he and [redacted] [redacted] returned home from dinner between 2100-2130 hours, he saw [redacted] W. W. Cronan seated on the couch watching television by himself. After speaking with his son W. W. Cronan briefly, he advised that [redacted] became very agitated with him because he and [redacted] had not taken him to dinner and proceeded to throw his beverage on him, soiling his shirt. Not long after having the drink thrown on him, he then advised that [redacted] W. W. Cronan spat in his face. It is worthy of noting that at this time, evidence of soiled clothing was not present, as he explained that he promptly changed his shirt because it was wet. When we asked him why he did not call police on today`s date regarding [redacted] actions. He simply replied that this was commonplace for [redacted] and has happened before, however, he had to tell the truth because the police were in his home on today`s date. At the conclusion of our conversation, Ofc. Pizarro took photos of [redacted] uninjured physical condition, these photos were then uploaded into evidence.com at a later time.

Upon making with the offender, W. W. Cronan a second time, Ofc. Pizarro and I questioned him as to what really happened during the course of the evening, however, he continued to dodge our questions. After asking him directly if he ever spat in [redacted] face on today`s date, he admitted that he did. When we asked him if he ever threw a drink on [redacted] on today`s date, he responded that he also threw a drink on [redacted]

NARRATIVE

Upon hearing his admittance to spitting in [redacted] face and throwing a drink on [redacted] person, W. W. Cronan was detained using department issued handcuffs that were checked for proper fit, and double locked per West Palm Beach Police Department Guidelines.

As a result of this investigation, probable cause exists to charge William W. Cronan (WM 12/20/90) with one count of Domestic Battery pursuant to FSS 784.03(1A1). Digital photographs of W.W. Cronan`s injuries were uploaded onto Evidence.com at a later time. A Victim Rights brochure was provided to [redacted] on scene which he signed for and understood on scene, he also invoked his right to privacy per Marsy`s Law, this form was later placed into the Sergeant`s Box for record keeping purposes. A Victim Notification Form was also completed on behalf of [redacted] and placed into the Sergeant`s Box for record keeping purposes as well. At the conclusion of the investigation, W.W. Cronan was subsequently transported to the Good Samaritan Free Standing ER where he was cleared medically before being transported to the PBCJ without further incident. BWC was active on scene and at the time of this writing, this ends my involvement in the matter.
