PROBABLE CAUSE STATEMENT

On October 13, 2026 at 1359 hours, I responded to 135 NW 20th Street Unit F12 in reference to a burglary/vandalism investigation.

Upon arrival, I made contact with the complainant, [redacted]. According to [redacted], she was near the pool by her apartment tanning with [redacted] While there, she heard commotion by her rear sliding door, on the first floor and observed Olivia Ewers, Olivia Marsico, and [redacted] standing outside. [redacted] and [redacted] then went to investigate and observed [redacted] suitcase, clothing items, bedding, and Canon GX7 ($1,000), scattered on the ground outside of the dorm while Ewers was walking in the dorm room. [redacted] and [redacted] stated, Eweres was also screaming and yelling at [redacted] that she does not live in the dorm room. [redacted] noted, [redacted] does not currently live in the dorm room, she is only visiting and staying in one of the rooms and all of her property was in that room. [redacted] further stated, no one currently lives in the other dorm rooms as they all have moved out. [redacted] also noted, Olivia Marsico and [redacted] used to live in the dorm room, however they vacated approximately two weeks ago. It should be noted, after [redacted] picked up her belongings outside of the dorm room she noticed her Canon GX7 camera had been damaged from being thrown, as it did not open properly and the screen was broken. [redacted] advised, prior to the incident, the camera was working properly, free of any defect. [redacted] also advised, she wished to have the incident investigated criminally.

I then made contact with Olivia Marsico at unit F21. According to Olivia, she used to live in room F12 with [redacted] with [redacted], and the two moved out approximately two weeks ago. Prior to police arrival, Olivia Marsico advised Ewers opened the sliding glass door and grabbed [redacted] belongings and started throwing them outside, "causing the entire scene". Olivia Marsico further stated, she did not throw any of the belongings or enter the room where [redacted] had her belongings, she only stood by the couch, next to the sliding glass door.

PROBABLE CAUSE STATEMENT

After, I spoke with [redacted]. According to [redacted], her new roommate, Alyssa Cruz, just moved out of dorm room F12 today, and while moving out of the dorm room, she observed personal belongings in her old room. [redacted] then advised, they were going to bring this matter up to property management as they did not want to get charged for a room she was not occupying. When asked about the incident, [redacted] advised she was not part of entering the dorm room or removing any of [redacted]` personal belongings, she showed up after the fact and noticed the items scattered outside the dorm room.

I then made contact with Olivia Ewers, who was read her constitutional warnings from a pre-printed care, in which she agreed to speak to me. According to Ewers, she was helping her friend, Alyssa Cruz, move out of her old dorm room earlier in the day with Olivia Marsico. At this time, she noticed [redacted]` personal belongings inside of [redacted]`s old room, which had been decorated with her belongings. Ewers noted, [redacted] has lived with several other people in the building and has not been paying rent. Ewers then opened the room by using [redacted]a`s old code to enter at her request. Ewers further stated, "I acted out, I should not have done that, I took her stuff, I took it out of the room". Ewers also advised, she threw the items around. Ewers then provided a video of herself, which showed her dancing around the suitcase and clothing items she threw outside. Ewers stated, she was only joking around. Ewers also acknowledged it was not her job or responsibility to remove someone else`s property and throw items around.

Lastley, I spoke with Alyssa Cruz. Cruz advised, Ewers and Olivia Marsico assisted help her move his belongings into her new dorm room today and she had been completely vacated from F12 by approximately 1200 hours and there was no need for anyone else to go back into her old dorm. It should be noted, this call for service came out at 1347 hours.

It should be noted, I spoke with property manager, Trenise Tellfort, via cellphone who advised, both Olivia and [redacted] Marsico both moved out approximately two weeks ago and turned their keys in.

Based on my investigation, statements from all parties, Ewers admitting to the incident, and video footage of her dancing around [redacted]` property, I developed probable cause to charge her with unoccupied burglary and criminal mischief ($1,000). Ewers knowingly and intentionally entered a room where the victim had an expectation of privacy and without permission. Ewers also knowingly and intentionally threw personal items belonging to the victim on the ground, causing damage valued at approximately $1,000. Ewers was then transported to the Boca Raton Police Department for processing. While in the booking facility, Ewers made suicidal statements about wanting to die and killing herself. Ewers also wished to go to the hospital and was transported to Boca Raton Regional Hospital by Boca Raton Fire Rescue and later transported to Palm Beach County Jail by Officer Orozco. Baker Act paperwork was also submitted to Palm Beach County Jail.
